This book is dedicated to Richard McBain
for his help,
for his time,
and for his encouragement.

Good morning! Good morning!
You look dandy, Travis.

Thank you! Thank you!
I'm wearing my best!

Travis, it's always good to see you.

Grandmother Quail,
I thought I heard your voice.

Travis, your hat is blue, like I am.

Blue Bunny, it's great to see you.

Travis, I love the way you're dressing.

Good morning, Mother duck,
I'm happy to see you and the little ones.

Red Rooster, I like the way you are dressing.

Travis, I like the way you are dressing.

Madam Butterfly,
I love to see you fly overhead.

Travis, I love to be on your farm.

Hello, Quick and Quack.

We like your gold chain and bracelets.

Good morning, three little pigs.

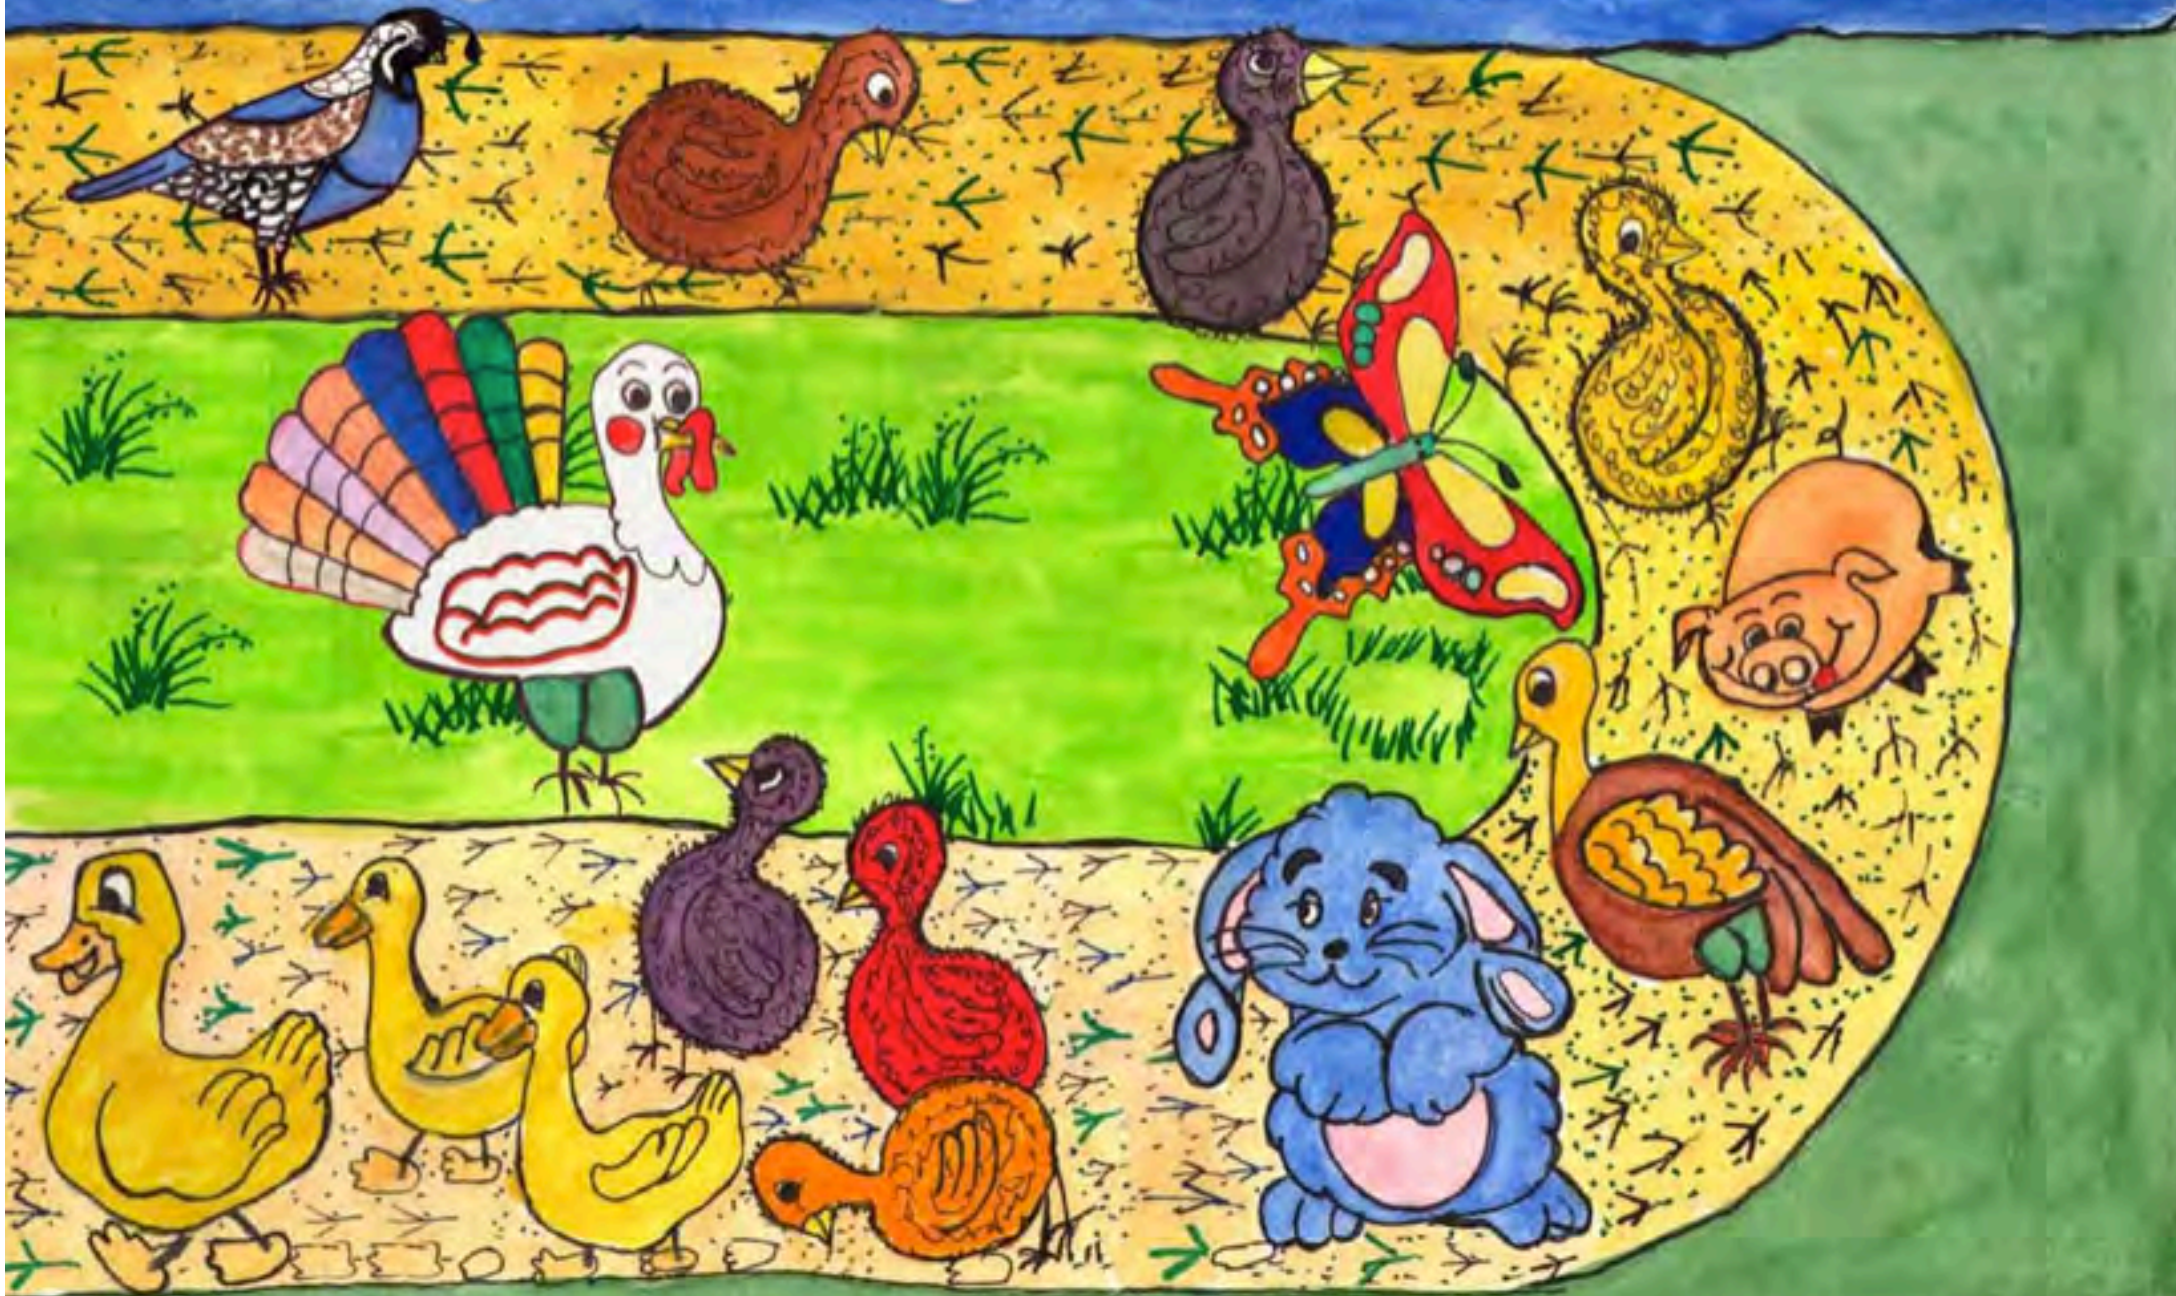

I like your derby hat and its red feather.

Me, too.

Me, three.

The best way to be dressing is to wear a heart full of love.

About the Author

Mary Jane Lyon has been painting for seventy years. For the first four years of her life, she lived with a grandmother who thought that every mark she made on a piece of paper was a masterpiece. In early elementary school, art was her only area of peer acceptance. Fast forward past twenty-three years of teaching elementary school and eleven years serving as a pastor in a United Methodist Church, and she came full circle, teaching adults and children watercolor, pastels, charcoal and acrylics. She has taught at Pima Community College and is a member of the Southern Arizona Watercolor Guild, the Southern Arizona Arts Guild, Paper Works, and Contemporary Artists of Southern Arizona.
